

Regenerative Organic Certified® Meeting

Biofach Messe – Nuremberg

15th February 2024 at 3.30 p.m. - Hall 1 stand 411

Bioagricert is one of the main organic control bodies in Italy and in the world, a leader in certification and inspection services in the agri-food field, especially regarding organic, sustainability and safety requirements. Bioagricert is part of Foodchain ID Group (www.foodchainid.com), an international network that can provide all certification, verification, testing and technical services.

Bioagricert/FoodChainID - in addition to its own regenerative agriculture certification program - has joined the Regenerative Organic Alliance \(ROA\), promoted by Patagonia as an APPROVED CERTIFICATION BODY and is able to offer the certification for the use of the Regenerative Organic Certified® claims on organic products that complies with the Regenerative Organic Certified® Framework.

Regenerative Organic Certified® was established in 2017 by a group of farmers, business leaders, and experts in soil health, animal welfare, and social fairness collectively called the Regenerative Organic Alliance, or ROA.

ROA mission is to build soil health, ensure equity for farm workers, empower farmers, and improve animal welfare through a holistic farm-based, brand-driven certification

Regenerative Organic Certified® was created to leverage and bring together existing high-bar certifications in order to avoid duplicative audits or burdensome paperwork. With USDA Organic certification as a baseline, Regenerative Organic Certified® recognizes the strong work already conducted by existing animal welfare and social fairness standard bodies, and therefore, leverages this work as part of the journey to Regenerative Organic Certified®.
